

Tell H. with my dearest love,
I cannot write this
to day.
with a heart very
full of love
for own loving mother.

precious,

Your dearest, sweetest letter of the 9th has given me joy to day. My most loving thanks for it & for the love & comfort which it brings. What is an accident or even the loss of precious teeth compared with the priceless love wh. these misfortunes call forth?
I am more than repaid I am ashamed that I was tempted to complain. You praise too highly my endeavor to make the best of things, for great compensation has been given, and I beg, my darling, that you will not 'know' any more on my acct.

The chief distress now is, that the "piece" supplied by the tormentor will certainly not do. It falls out 'per se' & is a danger as well as a discomfort.
As the man fixed it in himself & said it was quite right & 'finito' he can't say it was my fault that it came out suddenly in my mouth within an hour.
This happened on Friday & tho' I have tried to keep it in since it always does the same & is a real danger. He have now decided to get if possible tomorrow the opinion of another dentist & find out what can be done. Before we know this we cannot fix our return. It is sadly disappointing, but I will still hope for an early solution - But when we do come, you must not think, my darling, of any special 'celebration' Our being together again will be the supreme joy.

It is sweet of you to think of the R. & other cards for me, & I will be very glad to have several copies of the 'Referee'. - One for Mr. Johnson & one for Canon Raff. Mr. & Mrs. Johnson have just been cutting on me & sending their best greetings to mine.

This morn'g I went to the Service at All Saints, It was Special for the 11th, & with the 2 minutes' silence, & was very beautiful. Canon Raff gave an excellent address, drawing the 2 nations closer together. The Church was crowded, & on coming out I greeted William! He looked remarkably well - very fine & large.

Yesterday we went to see the Tomb of Diaz. It is very simple. The only decoration is an enormous wreath of wht-chrysanthemums & palm, with a scarf across it, letters in gold on black "Sarah, Marcello, Anna, Marie". I shed a tear for you, my darling. I know how odd the absence made your summer..
